

Thinking about the impact of teacher leadership

What follows is a slide that we use in programmes within the HertsCam Network to help us think about, plan for and evaluate the impact of teachers' development projects.

The second slide features a poster made by teachers in one of the schools in the HertsCam Network to portray the way we think about the moral purpose behind our development work. The poster is based on the impact framework reported on in the article referred to below:

Frost, D. and Durrant, J. (2002) Teachers as Leaders: Exploring the Impact of Teacher Led Development Work, School Leadership and Management, 22(2), 143-161.
